

Natural Resources Internship

The Idaho Department of Lands has an exciting opportunity for students majoring in natural resources to work as an intern in either the Boise or Sandpoint areas during the summer of 2006. This internship will provide students the chance to gain exposure to a number of activities within the Department of Lands, while providing an opportunity to acquire real-world experience directly related to their choice of profession. It will give them a solid understanding of what to expect from a career in natural resources and give them a chance to earn money for college.

About Idaho Department of Lands

We are an organization of 250 full-time, highly motivated natural resource and support function professionals, dedicated to the responsible management and protection of Idaho's natural resources.

We manage endowment lands to maximize long-term financial returns to the beneficiaries, and provide protection to Idaho's natural resources.

We offer careers for individuals interested in an action-oriented agency, offering opportunities to exercise independent authority, accept responsibility, and develop into natural resource leaders.
